CIG SEMINARS PROGRAM SPRING 2019

12:15 – Génopode, Dorigny – Auditorium B

Monday February 11, 2019

Guillaume Andrey,
University of Geneva, CH

«The dynamics of 3D chromatin structures influence transcription and morphogenesis»

Host: Alexandre Reymond

Monday May 13, 2019

Melanie Blokesch,

EPFL Lausanne, CH

«Ecology and evolution of the cholera-causing pathogen Vibrio cholerae»

Host: Richard Benton

Monday February 25, 2019

Jolanda van Leeuwen,

CIG, University of Lausanne, CH

«Systematic assessment of genetic suppression interactions»

Host: Paul Franken

Monday May 20, 2019

Manuel Irimia,

Centre for Genomic Regulation, Barcelona, ES

«How can hundreds of cell types be built from a single genome? Evolutionary mechanisms for proteome specialization»

Hosts: PhD students and Postdocs

Monday March 11, 2019

Louis Ptacek,

University of California San Francisco, USA

«Genetics and biology of human circadian rhythms»

Host: Paul Franken

Monday May 27, 2019

Justin Crocker,

EMBL Heidelberg, DE

«Decoding evolution and development: From gene-regulatory structure to function»

Host: Richard Benton

Monday March 18, 2019

Kent Duncan,

University of Hamburg, DE

«Translational control in neuronal development, function, and disease»

Host: David Gatfield

Monday June 17, 2019

Martine Collart,

University of Geneva, CH

«Co-translational assembly of proteasome in Not1 granules»

Host: David Gatfield

Monday March 25, 2019

Sascha Hoogendoorn,

University of Geneva, CH

«A CRISPR-based screen for Hedgehog signaling: insights into ciliary function and ciliopathies»

Host: Jolanda van Leeuwen

Monday June 24, 2019

Mihaela Zavolan,

Biozentrum, University of Basel, CH

«Regulation of RNA processing in relation to the cellular state»

Hosts: PhD students and Postdocs

Monday April 8, 2019

Manuel Serrano,

Institute for Research in Biomedicine (IRB),
Barcelona, ES

«Tissue repair: An integrated view of senescence and reprogramming»

Host: Lluís Fajás Coll
